

THOMAS AVERIN

HUMAN BEING/ DESIGNER

taverin@gmail.com – www.thomasaverin.com

Being a Human Being/Designer is a lot of work.

It involves being attentive, caring, passionate, and having a genuine interests to help solve other people's problems. It's tough, but as long as I am helping people fulfill there goals with interesting and compelling design, my job is a success.

Education

Graduated Arts & Communication Magnet Academy
Class of 2009

Currently attending Pacific Northwest College of Art for a Bachelor of Arts in Communication Design

Skills

Adobe Software CS3-5
(Photoshop, Illustrator, InDesign, Dreamweaver)

Packaging and Print Layout

Identity Development

Conceptual Design Development

Can work on Macintosh and Windows Platforms

Web Design and Development; HTML & CSS

Intricate knowledge of Wordpress, Joomla

Projects and Employments

Designed a new logo for the Arts & Communication
Magnet Academy (2 week project, 2007)

Directed the design of a school wide printed art anthology (2008)

- Managed the submission and formatting of a body of work spanning 150+ people
- Directed layout, typography, and printing

Directed and edited the design of the yearbook for the Arts & Communication Magnet Academy
(6 months, 2009)

- Established style guide
- Managed and edited the book along with a team of ten designers and photographers

Designer at Blue Sky Web Design
(25 Months, June 2008 – July 2010)

- Assisted in client relations and management
- One of two designers in a small team of 6

Currently working with multiple freelance clients on various projects.